About TransMonEE
⇒ captures a vast range of information on social and economic issues relevant to the situation and wellbeing of children, adolescents and women.
⇒ covers 28 countries of Europe and Commonwealth of Independent States.
⇒ represents a useful tool for governments, civil society organizations, donors and academia to better orient their decisions, policies, programmes and agendas.
⇒ updated every year thanks to the collaboration with national statistical offices (NSOs).

Data coverage
The database contains 180 economic and social indicators, primarily based on data from administrative sources and divided into 11 topics, including:
⇒ Population
⇒ Fertility
⇒ Mortality
⇒ Health
⇒ Education
⇒ Child Protection
⇒ Juvenile Justice and Crime
⇒ Social Protection

Timeliness
⇒ Jun: country-specific templates are shared with NSOs
⇒ Early Oct: templates filled in with data for the previous year and submitted by NSOs.
⇒ Oct-Dec: the database coordinator follows up with the countries for clarifications and additional information.
⇒ Jan-Mar: the data are brought together, indicators calculated and checked for consistency
⇒ Apr: the updated database is disseminated

Data comparability and table notes
Similar to other cross-national statistical databases, concepts and measures may differ between countries. Therefore, users are strongly encouraged to consult the notes on specific data.
